CASE STUDY

Problem

Tufin is a security policy management company that specializes in the automation of security policy changes across hybrid platforms to improve security and compliance.

Because they deal directly with their clients' security systems, they must maintain the highest level of cybersecurity, which requires the regular execution of penetration testing. Due to the continuous nature of their development process, they require a solution that supports rather than delays R&D, as well as SDL

Solution

GRSee Consulting plans and performs penetration testing according to the R&D timeline to prevent delays in version releases and provides a comprehensive, client-friendly report to satisfy both due diligence and external regulations. Tufin also benefits from the GRSee Consulting's experience with the dynamics of SDL to support those initiatives.

Through their ongoing working protocol, Tufin receives insights to secure new features and technologies as they're developed and integrated.

Results

GRSee Consulting's comprehensive PT report supported Tufin in the demonstration of its security posture to clients, stakeholders, and auditors. The security team works seamlessly with the R&D team in performing timely and secure penetration testing, meeting challenging requirements and deadlines.
